"If I lose the light of the sun, I will write by candlelight, moonlight, no light, If I lose paper and ink, I will write in blood on forgotten walls. I will write always. I will capture nights all over the world and bring them to you." Henry Rollins, renowned spoken-word performer, musician, actor and author of several books, has a unique, hard-edged view of the world. This collection of writings from 1989 - 1991 is the classic Rollins book. From dramatic fiction shorts detailing stark, disturbing realities to gut-wrenching tour journals destroying all misconceptions of the glamour of fame and the music industry; from the challenging poetry to revealing dream sequences, Rollins' writing is unflinching in its honesty, uncompromising in its truth and irresistibly addictive.

Good book

By A. S. Findeis

Fun book to read. It's a very personal book at times but also very truthful. I felt like the author had actually expressed thoughts I could not get out. I will recommend to everyone.

Dateline: Beverly Hills, Rollins goes bezerk.

By Steffan Piper

I read this little gem and re-read it a few more times, I was doubled over in pain from the laughter each time. Henry Rollins captures Los Angeles by the throat in this book and shakes it for dear life. He probably wouldn't have any remorse about it either.

My favorite piece was #111, describing his feelings toward other famous musicians. This man should allow himself expansion into longer works though. He would become the Henry Miller of the next millennium.

His 'familial hate-fuel' never resolves itself in this, neither does he run short on truth and Angelino angst. But something tells me that's how he wants it. Don't expect him to whisper sweet-nothings into your ear with this.

Expect only the sole of his boot. Because Rollins delivers.

Best of the bunch?

By A Customer

While hank would probably hate anyone "reviewing" his work, I can't help but jot down a few notes on this one. This book, along with Black Coffee Blues Part 2, are the best the Mekaniks numerous works. Perhaps i identify with anyone who also appreciates Coffee as a religious experience. This book is a definite "must" for anyone who has sat in a foreign coffee shop feeling entirely depressed and alone, watching the world go by, with only some steaming java for comfort. If you can look at yourself & see the humour in that situation, you'll appreciate Henry Rollins spin on things.
